

The communities affected by the flood hazard determinations are provided in the tables below. Any request for reconsideration of the revised flood hazard information shown on the Preliminary FIRM and FIS report that satisfies the data requirements outlined in 44 CFR 67.6(b) is considered an appeal. Comments unrelated to the flood hazard determinations also will be considered before the FIRM and FIS report become effective.

Use of a Scientific Resolution Panel (SRP) is available to communities in support of the appeal resolution process. SRPs are independent panels of experts in hydrology, hydraulics, and other pertinent sciences established to review conflicting scientific and technical data and provide recommendations for resolution. Use of the SRP only may be exercised after FEMA and local communities have been engaged in a collaborative consultation process for at least 60 days without a mutually acceptable resolution of an appeal. Additional information regarding the SRP process can be found online at https://www.floodsrp.org/pdfs/srp_overview.pdf.

The watersheds and/or communities affected are listed in the tables below. The Preliminary FIRM, and where applicable, FIS report for each community are available for inspection at both the online location <https://hazards.fema.gov/femaportal/prelimdownload> and the respective Community Map Repository address listed in the tables. For communities with multiple ongoing Preliminary studies, the studies can be identified by the unique project number and Preliminary FIRM date listed in the tables. Additionally, the current effective FIRM and FIS report for each community are accessible online through the FEMA Map Service Center at <https://msc.fema.gov> for comparison. SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Overview: The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) runs the Radiological Emergency Preparedness (REP) Program. This program helps State, Tribal, and local governments plan, train, and prepare for emergencies involving commercial nuclear power facilities. It ensures that these governments can respond to and recover from such incidents. Legal Background: Section 109 of the NRC Authorization Act of 1980 (Pub. L. 96-295) requires the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) to include emergency preparedness as a condition for licensing nuclear power plants. This means that before a plant can operate, there must be an emergency response plan that meets FEMA and NRC standards. If there is no State or local plan, an alternative plan must provide reasonable assurance that public health and safety are protected. Regulations: The NRC has set regulations in 10 CFR part 50, which include 16 planning standards for emergency plans. FEMA has similar standards in 44 CFR part 350. FEMA reviews offsite emergency plans and preparedness in communities around commercial nuclear power facilities. States must conduct joint exercises involving local governments, the State, and the NRC licensee to ensure these plans are effective (see 44 CFR part 350.9). Reasonable Assurance: FEMA defines "reasonable assurance" as having adequate plans and preparedness to protect public health and safety in the event of an incident at a commercial nuclear power facility. This includes having the right procedures, trained personnel, facilities, equipment, and regular drills and exercises. FEMA works with other Federal agencies, State, Tribal, and local governments, and industry stakeholders to make this determination. Voluntary Participation: While participation in offsite radiological emergency planning is voluntary, those who choose to participate must follow the program requirements in 44 CFR part 350 and the joint NRC/FEMA document NUREG-0654/FEMA-REP-1, Rev. 2, "Criteria for Preparation and Evaluation of Radiological Emergency Response Plans and Preparedness in Support of Nuclear Power Plants," and the REP Program Manual (RPM) provides detailed guidance on these requirements.
