Transmittal Email

Dear Sir or Madam:

This email message and the attached file constitute EPA's transmission of a Data Call-In (DCI) Notice [GDCl-PCCODE#-CASE#] to you. The DCI Notice requires you, a registrant of pesticide products containing the active ingredient [Ingredient Name] (PC code #####), to take certain steps and submit certain data to the EPA's Office of Pesticide Programs within the time frames provided in the DCI to maintain the continued registration of your product(s) containing the active ingredient. The options for responding to this Notice are: (1) voluntary cancellation, (2) delete use(s), (3) claim generic data exemption, (4) agree to satisfy the data requirements imposed by this Notice, (5) request a data waiver(s), or (6) other EDSP-related response options.

The attached file contains the DCI Notice and its cover letter, attachments, and instructions concerning the active ingredient. Please open and read the attached file. You are required to acknowledge receipt of this transmission within the next five business days by e-mail as further described in this message. Additionally, you must provide a response to the DCI and its data requirements within 90 days. Specific deadlines for submission of reports and data are set forth in the DCI.

When submitting data for this DCI via CDX (<https://dev.epacdx.net/CDX/MyCDX>) please submit as a voluntary submission through the portal. Due to the current state of EPA's data management system new DCIs are not being recognized within the portal and, as a result, the only viable way to submit data for recent DCIs will be to submit via voluntary submission. EPA is currently working on updating our systems and a new DCI submission process but is using this method as a workaround solution until a new system is in place. Please notify the Agency's Chemical Review Manager (CRM) when you submit the data via CDX for this DCI.

A copy of the DCI will be placed in the Registration Review docket for the active ingredient at www.regulations.gov. If you have any questions about the DCI or cannot open the attachments, please contact the Chemical Review Manager at [CRM email address]
