It is this citizen's opinion that the work of information collection activities regarding avian bird flu are vital to the health of American animal husbandry workers. The work being done to assist State and local animal health officials and poultry producers in creating and applying biosecurity and response plans helps to protect this vital American workers and their largely impactful industry. The information collection activities not only help respond to avian bird flu outbreaks but also assist in preventing them (through developing and enforcing flock plans and compliance agreements, developing restocking and testing agreements, and submitting reports). These information collections also help make sure indemnity claims are accurate, which protects taxpayers resources. Thus, it is this taxpayer's opinion that the budget required to continue these information collection activities should be approved and provided to continue to help protect our workers, America's public health, and our taxpayer resources.
