Create an Online Account

Before you can move on, you need to create an account on Login.gov. You can also link to an existing account if you already have one.

Login.gov is a secure service that lets you create one account to connect with any government agency that uses it. They also have their own support team, so if you have problems creating your account or signing in, you can contact them directly.

When you click Sign In or Create an Account below, you'll go to the Login.gov site. Then just follow the instructions.

When you create an account, this links your application to it so you can easily access it later. And your information always stays secure.

If you want to learn more, read What is Login.gov. If you have questions, you also can find some answers about Login.gov and accounts in the Common Tech Questions section of our FAQs page.

Privacy Act Statement & Declaration of Eligibility

FEMA is required by law to give you a copy of the Privacy Act statement.

The Privacy Act of 1974 protects your rights as to how FEMA uses and shares your information with entities such as states, tribes, local governments, and other organizations. The Stafford Act and other laws allow FEMA to collect information to determine eligibility and provide assistance after a Presidentially declared disaster

If you get FEMA and your insurance or other sources cover the same loss, you may be required to return some or all of the FEMA assistance you received.

To qualify for assistance, you must declare that you or someone in your household is a citizen, non-citizen national, or a qualified alien of the United States. If you provide false information or lie in an attempt to get assistance, it violates federal and state laws, which carry criminal or civil penalties or both.

You authorize FEMA and the state, tribe, or local government to verify all of the information you provide and request documentation from your insurance company, or other third parties, to determine your eligibility for assistance.

The disclosure of information, including Social Security number, on this form is voluntary; but failure to provide the information we request may delay or stop you from getting disaster assistance.

Please Note

Insurance

If you have insurance, file a claim with your provider before you apply for FEMA assistance. Make sure to apply before the deadline - typically 60 days after the declaration date.

By law, FEMA can't pay for costs that your insurance covers, so it's important to contact your insurance company right away to file a claim.

Documentation required

To help us process your application, please save copies of receipts for any costs you have incurred. Having these documents ready will help you complete the reimbursement steps accurately.
