I believe this is a strong proposal to streamline information collection for birds under the Animal Welfare Act for organizations that work with both birds and other AWA-covered species. Consolidating these requirements will reduce administrative burden and make records more accessible and consistent across species. As a veterinary student who works with many different animal species, I understand the value in having bird-related information integrated into the same approval and reporting framework used for other AWA-regulated animals. Using a single, unified system improves efficiency, reduces confusion, and makes compliance easier for regulated entities while maintaining appropriate oversight.
