I-539, Application to Extend/Change Nonimmigrant Status

Use this application if you are eligible and wish to apply to U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) for an extension of stay or a change to another nonimmigrant status.

You may also use this application if you are a nonimmigrant F-1 or M-1 student applying for reinstatement.

In certain situations, you may use this application to apply for an initial nonimmigrant status.

Currently, you may only file Form I-539, Application to Extend/Change Nonimmigrant Status online if you are filing for yourself. If you are including your spouse or unmarried children under 21 years of age as co-applicants in your application, you must submit a separate I-539A for each co-applicant and your I-539 by mailing the paper forms to USCIS.

If you are applying for an extension of stay or change of status, you generally must submit your application before your current authorized stay expires. Generally, even if USCIS approves your request, you must file a Form I-539 to “bridge” any gap between the expiration of your current status and start of the validity of your future status.

We suggest you file at least 45 days, but generally not more than 6 months, before your stay expires. Failure to file before the expiration date may be excused if you demonstrate when you file the application that:

- The delay was due to extraordinary circumstances beyond your control;
- The length of the delay was reasonable;
- You have not otherwise violated your status;
- You are still a bona fide nonimmigrant; and
- You are not in removal proceedings.

If you are ineligible for online filing must file by mailing a paper Form I-539 to USCIS at the designated address. See <https://www.uscis.gov/i-539-addresses>.

⚠ Online filing is only available for certain applicants

At this time, you cannot file online if you:

- Are including derivative co-applicants in your application, or
- Currently hold A, G, NATO, V, T, or U nonimmigrant status.

If you are ineligible for online filing must file by mailing a paper Form I-539 to USCIS at the designated address. See <https://www.uscis.gov/i-539-addresses>.

Before You Start Your Application Or Petition

👤 Eligibility

You may be eligible to apply for an extension of stay or change of status if:

- You were lawfully admitted into the United States with a nonimmigrant visa;
- Your nonimmigrant visa status remains valid;
- You have not committed any crimes that make you ineligible for a visa;
- You have not violated the conditions of your admission; and
- Your passport is valid and will remain valid for the duration of your stay.

If your nonimmigrant status is based on the fact that you are a family member or dependent of an individual who has already been granted nonimmigrant status, then you must file your application while that individual continues to maintain a valid nonimmigrant status. Family members and dependents are limited to the same period of authorized stay as the principal immigrant.

You may not be granted an extension or change of status if you were admitted under the Visa Waiver Program or if your current status is:

- Applicants requesting status as a principal temporary worker or requesting to extend status as a principal temporary worker. Such applications may be rejected or denied without refund;

Before you Start (I-539)

- An alien in transit (C) or in transit without a visa (TWOV);
- A crewman (D); or
- A fiancé(e) or dependent of a fiancé(e) (K-1 or K-2).

A spouse (K-3) of a U.S. citizen and his or her children (K-4) may not change to another nonimmigrant status.

Exception: K-3 and K-4 nonimmigrants are eligible to apply for an extension of status during the processing of Form I-130 filed on their behalf and up to completion of their adjustment-of-status or immigrant visa application.

Note: Nonimmigrants may not change their status to K-3 or K-4.

Fee

We will automatically calculate the cost for you before you submit your application, including any exceptions to the fees that may apply in your case. For specific information about fees applicable to this form, see Form G-1055. There is an additional fee for Premium Processing Service.

If you are unable to pay the filing fees you can learn more about filing a fee waiver.

Refund policy: USCIS does not refund fees, regardless of any action we take on your application, petition, or request, or how long USCIS takes to reach a decision. By continuing this transaction, you acknowledge that you must submit fees in the exact amount and that you are paying the fees for a government service.

Documents you may need

Most applicants will be required to submit:

- Form I-94, Nonimmigrant Arrival-Departure Record

We will automatically determine which documents you should provide us as you fill out your application. At the time of filing, you must submit all evidence and supporting documentation listed.

Biometric services appointment

USCIS may require you to appear for an interview or provide biometrics (fingerprints, photograph, and/or signature) at any time to verify your identity, obtain additional information, and conduct background and security checks, including a check of criminal history records maintained by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), before making a decision on your application or petition. If we determine that a biometric services appointment is necessary, we will send you an appointment notice with the date, time, and location of your appointment. If you are currently overseas, your notice will instruct you to contact a U.S. Embassy, U.S. Consulate, or USCIS office outside the United States to schedule an appointment.

At your biometrics appointment, you must sign an oath reaffirming that:

- You provided or authorized all information in the application;
- You reviewed and understood all of the information contained in, and submitted with, your application; and
- All of this information was complete, true, and correct at the time of filing.

If you do not attend your biometric services appointment, we may deny your application.

Language access

USCIS ensures that individuals with limited English proficiency (LEP) have meaningful access to USCIS services. Individuals with LEP may bring a qualified interpreter to the interview. USCIS considers requests for language assistance on a case-by-case basis, and we will make a reasonable effort to provide you with a qualified interpreter.

An attorney or accredited representative must complete and submit a new G-28 form for each client case. The G-28 can be started along with a client's new case or it can be added to a client's already-submitted case. Once your client adds you as a representative, he or she will need to review the information provided in the G-28. If all the information is correct, your client will accept the G-28 and then provide his or her signature. If the information is incorrect, your client will decline the G-28 and we will send it back to you to make updates.

Once your client accepts the G-28, he or she will then review each benefit form submitted with the G-28. If all information is correct, your client will provide his or her signature. If any information is incorrect, your client may decline and send back the benefit form(s) for you to make any updates.

Evidence Supporting Your Reason For An Extension

Upload an image or copy of any evidence supporting your reason for requesting an extension. You may request an extension of stay if:

- You have compelling educational or medical reasons that resulted in a delay of your course of study;
- You are transferring to a different school; or
- You are applying for practical training.

Note: Delays caused by academic probation or suspension are not acceptable reasons for program extension.

Note: If you are transferring schools six months, or more, from the date you were first admitted, you will need to upload evidence showing you are unable to remain at the school you were initially admitted to attend due to circumstances beyond your control.

Note: M-1 students may not change their educational objective and should not request an extension for this reason.

If you were out of status for more than five months at the time of filing your request for reinstatement, you must also provide evidence that your failure to file within the five-month period was the result of exceptional circumstances and that you filed your request for reinstatement as promptly as possible under these exceptional circumstances.
