Labor Certification Form ETA-9089

You must file petitions for certain classifications with an original, individual labor certification from the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL) or with documentation to establish that the alien qualifies for one of the shortage occupations designated in Group I or II of DOL's Schedule A. If an individual labor certification is required, you must submit the original, individual labor certification with your Form I-140, unless the original labor certification was already provided to USCIS in support of a different petition. As an alternative, you may select "Yes" for in Part 4., Item Number 10. and ask USCIS to request a duplicate of the original certification from DOL.

A labor certification establishes there are insufficient U.S. workers able, willing, qualified, and available to fill the position offered to the alien at the time when and place where the alien will work. It also establishes the alien's employment, if qualified, will not adversely affect the wages and working conditions of similarly employed U.S. workers. Application for labor certification is currently made on Form ETA-9089. Labor certification applications filed before March 28, 2005, were filed on Form ETA-750. If the alien is in a Schedule A, Group I or II shortage occupation, you may file a fully completed, uncertified Form ETA-9089 with your Form I-140 for USCIS to determine if the alien's occupation belongs to the shortage occupation.

See 20 CFR 656 or the DOL website at www.dol.gov/agencies/eta/foreign-labor for further information about obtaining an individual labor certification or about Schedule A, Group I or II shortage occupations.

Effective July 16, 2007, all labor certifications expire 180 days from the date of certification. USCIS must receive any Form I-140 based on approved labor certifications before the 180 day validity period has elapsed. In instances where the ending date of the labor certification's validity period expires on a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday, USCIS will accept petitions with the labor certification on the next business day. USCIS will reject petitions with expired labor certifications filed after the next business day.

Provide an original certified and properly signed Form ETA-9089.
