2024 vs 2025 AIES	Comments
Remove from collection.	Through discussions with stakeholders, these items are no longer needed.
Remove from collection.	Experience has shown that this question is not broadly applicable across companies and adds little to the analysis.
Remove from collection.	This topic is already covered by the Business Enterprise Research and Development Survey (BERD).
Remove from collection.	These questions are not contributing to current or anticipated data uses for internal analyses or external products.
Add to collection for SY25, recurring every 5 years.	These breakouts are essential to our data users and stakeholders.
Remove from collection.	Revenue detail questions are being removed because they duplicate content that will be captured through NAPCS and could result in slivers.

	This item was collected in survey year 2023 but dropped in survey year 2024, because the same sample allowed use of prior-year inventory data. With a new sample and the transition

Add to collection.	Patient discharges will provide a more complete picture of hospital activity. Collecting related measures together helps the Census Bureau evaluate organizing them into a single, cohesive module, improving questionnaire flow and making reporting more intuitive for respondents. Hospitals already track this information, and it is collected on the Quarterly Services Survey (QSS), so additional burden is minimal. This effort supports reducing fragmentation across surveys and creating a more streamlined reporting experience while maintaining high-quality statistics.
