I-485 Supplement A, Supplement A To Form I-485, Adjustment Of Status Under Section 245(i)			Instructions page 1	Use Supplement A to Form I-485, Adjustment of Status Under INA Section 245(i) (Supplement A), only if you are applying to adjust status to that of a lawful permanent resident under the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA) section 245(i). You may file Supplement A only if you are filing your Form I-485, Application to Register Permanent Residence or Adjust Status, at the same time or if you previously filed your Form I-485 and it remains pending. If you are disqualified from adjusting status under INA section 245(a), you may be eligible to adjust status under INA section 245(i). For more information on who may be disqualified from adjusting under INA section 245(a), see the Bars to Adjustment and Grounds of Inadmissibility section. You should use Supplement A if you seek to adjust status under INA section 245(i). You cannot adjust status based on filing Supplement A alone. You must also file Form I-485 and be eligible for a visa under a family-based, employment-based, special immigrant, or Diversity Visa immigrant category. Supplement A and Form I-485 are used to determine whether you qualify for INA section 245(i) adjustment.
Before You Start Your Supplement	Eligibility		Instructions page 1	Use Supplement A if you are applying to adjust status under INA section 245(i). You may file Supplement A when: • You are filing your Form I-485 at the same time; or • You previously filed your Form I-485 and it remains pending.
	[Eligibility continued]			You may file Supplement A only if: • ONE of the following applies to you: - You are or were the principal beneficiary of an immigrant petition or application for permanent labor certification properly filed on or before January 14, 1998, which was approvable when filed; - You are or were the principal beneficiary of an immigrant petition or application for permanent labor certification properly filed on or after January 15, 1998, but on or before April 30, 2001, which was approvable when filed and you were physically present in the United States on December 21, 2000; - You are or were the derivative beneficiary of an immigrant petition or application for permanent labor certification properly filed on or before January 14, 1998, which was approvable when filed; - You are or were the derivative beneficiary of an immigrant petition or application for permanent labor certification properly filed on or after January 15, 1998, but on or before April 30, 2001, which was approvable when filed and the principal beneficiary was physically present in the United States on December 21, 2000; or - You are currently the spouse or child (unmarried and under 21 years of age) eligible to accompany or follow-to-join your spouse or parent who is a principal or derivative beneficiary. An immigrant petition is considered properly filed if the: • Petitioner properly signed the petition; • Petitioner submitted the correct filing fee; and • Petition was physically received at a designated USCIS office (then known as the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS)) on or before April 30, 2001 or was mailed with a postmark on or before April 30, 2001 (regardless of when INS received it). A permanent labor certification application is considered properly filed if the U.S. Department of Labor (or a designated state workforce agency) accepted the application on or before April 30, 2001, under applicable Federal regulations at the time.
	[Eligibility continued]		Instructions page 2	AND • ALL of the following apply to you: - You are physically present in the United States; - You are eligible to receive an immigrant visa because you are the current beneficiary of an immigrant petition or you were selected for a Diversity Visa for the current fiscal year (or because you are the spouse or child (unmarried and under 21 years of age) eligible to accompany or follow-to-join your spouse or parent who is a principal or derivative beneficiary); - An immigrant visa is immediately available to you at the time you file your application; - You are admissible to the United States for lawful permanent residence or eligible for a waiver of inadmissibility or other form of relief; and - You are paying the required filing fee as described in Form G-1055, available at the G-1055 Fee Schedule Page. Note: Visit the Visa Availability and Priority Dates page to determine whether an immigrant visa is immediately available. Second link: www.uscis.gov/g-1055
	[Eligibility continued]			Current Family Member of Principal Applicant If you qualify to file under INA section 245(i) because you are the current spouse or child (unmarried and under 21 years of age) who is eligible to accompany or follow-to-join a principal applicant for adjustment of status under INA section 245(i), you must file Form I-485: • At the same time as the principal applicant files Form I-485; • After the principal applicant filed a Form I-485 that remains pending a final decision by U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS); or • After the principal applicant was granted lawful permanent residence under INA section 245(i) (as long as the principal applicant is still currently a lawful permanent resident) and at the time of that approval, you were the principal applicant's spouse or child.
	Bars to Adjustment and Grounds of Inadmissibility		Instructions page 2	Bars to Adjustment In general, you are not eligible for adjustment of status based on INA section 245(a) if any of the adjustment bars apply to you. See INA section 245(a) and (c) for more information on these adjustment bars, including whether an exemption might apply to you. If one or more of the below adjustment bars applies to you and you are not exempt under INA sections 245(a), (c), or (k), you must qualify under INA section 245(i) to adjust. • You last entered the United States without being admitted or paroled after inspection by an immigration officer; • You last entered the United States as a nonimmigrant crewman; • You are now employed or have ever been employed in the United States without authorization; • You are not in lawful immigration status on the date of filing your application for adjustment of status; • You have at any time failed to continuously maintain a lawful status since entry into the United States, unless your failure to maintain status was through no fault of your own or for technical reasons; • You were last admitted to the United States in transit without a visa; • You were last admitted to the United States as a nonimmigrant visitor without a visa, under the Guam and Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands Visa Waiver Program, and you are not a Canadian citizen; • You were last admitted to the United States as a nonimmigrant visitor without a visa under the Visa Waiver Program; • You are seeking employment-based adjustment of status, and you are not maintaining a lawful nonimmigrant status on the date of filing your application for adjustment of status; or • You have ever violated the terms of your nonimmigrant status. Note: If the bars do not apply to you or you are exempt, then you do not need to adjust under INA section 245(i) and you should not file Supplement A. Grounds of Inadmissibility If you are inadmissible to the United States, you may not adjust to lawful permanent resident status. You can find more information at our the grounds of inadmissibility page listed in INA section 212(a). If you are inadmissible, you may be eligible for a waiver or other form of relief. If your waiver application or other form of relief is granted, USCIS may approve your application to adjust status. You can learn more about waivers and other forms of relief by reading the Instructions for Form I-601, Application for Waiver of Grounds of Inadmissibility, and Form I-212, Application for Permission to Reapply for Admission into the United States After Deportation or Removal. If you are using a permanent labor certification application to qualify, you do not need to complete that question in the Getting Started section. Note: If you use one of the petitions listed in this section to qualify to apply under INA section 245(i), you may be able to use the same petition to establish eligibility for an immigrant visa, or you may establish eligibility for an immigrant visa based on another petition or on being selected for a Diversity Visa for the current fiscal year.

Primary Nav	Secondary Nav	Conditional Logic	Evidence Title	Field Type	Instructional Text	Document type	File Requirements	Required?	Links	Notes
Evidence	Qualifying petition or application		Evidence Of Qualifying Petition Or Application		You must upload official documentation to prove that you: • Are or were the principal beneficiary of an immigrant petition or application for permanent labor certification that was properly filed on or before April 30, 2001, and which was approvable when filed; • Are or were a derivative beneficiary (the principal beneficiary's spouse or unmarried child under 21 years of age at the time the qualifying petition was filed) of an immigrant petition or application for permanent labor certification that was properly filed on or before April 30, 2001, and which was approvable when filed; or • Are currently the spouse or an unmarried child under 21 years of age who is eligible to accompany or follow-to-join a principal or derivative beneficiary, and the principal or derivative beneficiary is currently applying for or was granted adjustment of status under INA section 245(i). To prove the existence of a qualifying petition or application, upload an official document showing either: • The filing or approval of the immigrant petition (Form I-797, Notice of Action), which contains the principal beneficiary's name; or • The filing or approval of the permanent labor certification application (Form ETA-750), which contains the principal beneficiary's name. If you qualify to apply for adjustment of status under INA section 245(i) because you are or were a derivative beneficiary of a qualifying petition or application, you must prove the required relationship to the principal beneficiary by submitting a marriage certificate (for spouse) or birth certificate (for child). This evidence must show that the claimed relationship existed at the time the qualifying petition was properly filed. You do not need to show that the relationship still exists. If you qualify to apply for adjustment of status under INA section 245(i) because you are the current spouse or an unmarried child under 21 years of age of a person who is or was the principal or derivative beneficiary of a qualifying petition, you must submit evidence of your current relationship to the principal applicant.	• Form I-797, Notice of Action • Marriage certificate • Birth certificate • Other documents	• Clear and readable • Accepted file formats: JPG, JPEG, PDF, TIF or TIFF • No encrypted or password-protected files • If your documents are in a foreign language, upload a full English translation and the translator's certification with each original document. • Upload no more than five documents at a time • Accepted file name characters: English letters, numbers, spaces, periods, hyphens, underscores, and parentheses • Maximum size: 12MB per file
	Evidence of proper filing		Evidence Of Proper Filing		Upload evidence showing that the qualifying immigrant petition or application for permanent labor certification was properly filed. An immigrant petition is considered properly filed if the: • Petitioner properly signed the petition; • Petitioner submitted the correct filing fee; and • Petition was physically received at a designated USCIS office (then known as the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS)) on or before April 30, 2001 or was mailed with a postmark on or before April 30, 2001 (regardless of when INS received it). A permanent labor certification application is considered properly filed if the U.S. Department of Labor (or a designated state workforce agency) accepted the application on or before April 30, 2001, under applicable Federal regulations at the time. Examples of evidence showing that your immigrant petition was properly filed: • Form I-797 showing a qualifying date of filing. (Form I-797 showing a filing date indicates the U.S. Government accepted the petition and implies that the U.S. Government determined the petition was signed and submitted with the appropriate filing fee); or • Form ETA-750 bearing a state workforce agency's date stamp, an agency letter, or other document specifying the date of receipt/filing.	• Form I-797, Notice of Action • Other documents	• Clear and readable • Accepted file formats: JPG, JPEG, PDF, TIF or TIFF • No encrypted or password-protected files • If your documents are in a foreign language, upload a full English translation and the translator's certification with each original document. • Upload no more than five documents at a time • Accepted file name characters: English letters, numbers, spaces, periods, hyphens, underscores, and parentheses • Maximum size: 12MB per file
	Evidence of approval or approvable status		Evidence Of Petition's Or Application's Approval Or Approvable Status		Upload evidence showing that the qualifying petition or application was approvable when filed. An immigrant petition or labor certification application is considered approvable when filed if: • The petition or application was properly filed; • The petition or application was meritorious in fact; and • The petition or application was not frivolous ("frivolous" meaning patently without substance). Unless contradictory evidence exists, a final decision approving the required petition or application shows that the petition or application was approvable when filed. Such an approval consists of: • An INS approval notice (on Form I-797) for the immigrant petition; or • A U.S. Department of Labor certification stamp (on Form ETA-750) for the permanent labor certification application. Absent an approved petition, you may upload any relevant evidence to show the petition or application was properly filed and approvable when filed. USCIS makes this determination based on the circumstances that existed at the time the qualifying petition or application was filed. A petition or application that was approvable when filed but was later withdrawn, denied, or revoked due to circumstances that arose after the time of filing may still qualify you for INA section 245(i) adjustment if you are otherwise eligible.	• Form I-797, Notice of Action • Other documents	• Clear and readable • Accepted file formats: JPG, JPEG, PDF, TIF or TIFF • No encrypted or password-protected files • If your documents are in a foreign language, upload a full English translation and the translator's certification with each original document. • Upload no more than five documents at a time • Accepted file name characters: English letters, numbers, spaces, periods, hyphens, underscores, and parentheses • Maximum size: 12MB per file
	Evidence of physical presence		Evidence Of Physical Presence		Upload evidence showing that the principal beneficiary of the qualifying petition was physically present in the United States on December 21, 2000 (if applicable). If you qualify to apply for adjustment of status under INA section 245(i) based on an immigrant petition or application for permanent labor certification filed on or after January 15, 1998, you must prove that the principal beneficiary of that petition or application was physically present in the United States on December 21, 2000. In some cases, a single document may suffice to prove physical presence, but often you will need to submit several documents. USCIS will ordinarily place the greatest weight on government-issued documents. The following list gives examples of documents that you may upload as evidence of physical presence: • Form I-94 Arrival/Departure Record, the nonimmigrant visa page of the principal beneficiary's passport, Form I-512L, or other U.S. Government-issued document showing admission or parole into the United States after inspection by an immigration officer; • A Notice to Appear in Immigration Court; • Official correspondence or other notices from a U.S. Government agency; • A state driver's license;	• Form I-94, Arrival/Departure Record • Form I-512L • U.S. Government-issued document • A Notice to Appear in Immigration Court • Official correspondence from a U.S. Government agency • A state driver's license • Income tax records • Property tax records • School or college transcripts and records • Hospital or doctor's records • Lease agreements and rental receipts • Utility bill receipts • Payroll statements • Pay stubs • Bank records • Credit card statements • Other documents	• Clear and readable • Accepted file formats: JPG, JPEG, PDF, TIF or TIFF • No encrypted or password-protected files • If your documents are in a foreign language, upload a full English translation and the translator's certification with each original document. • Upload no more than five documents at a time • Accepted file name characters: English letters, numbers, spaces, periods, hyphens, underscores, and parentheses • Maximum size: 12MB per file
		[Physical presence continued]			• Income tax or property tax records, returns, or payments; • School or college transcripts and records; • Hospital or doctor's records; • Lease agreements and rental receipts; • Utility bill receipts; • Employment records, such as payroll statements or pay stubs; or • Bank and credit card statements and records. Note: If you submit a personal affidavit attesting to physical presence, you must also submit other supporting documentation. USCIS will evaluate all documentation on a case-by-case basis. If you qualify to apply for adjustment of status under INA section 245(i) based on an immigrant petition filed on or before January 14, 1998, you do NOT need to submit any evidence of physical presence.
